DEFINITION OF HEALTH 12

1.0 Who are the volunteers?

A volunteer is someone who gives a commitment of time and energy for the benefit of the community, which is undertaken freely without financial gain. It is a vital resource for most community organizations. According to a 2007 Canadian survey on giving, volunteering and participating, nearly 12.5 million Canadians; or 46% of the population aged 15 years and older have volunteered. With an astounding 2.1 million hours of volunteering, this is equivalent to 1.1 million full time employments. The most common reasons to volunteer are the desire to contribute to the community, building friendship, support and recognition for their work, and the feeling of being connected to the community.

6.0 What the volunteers need to know

Here is practical information needed to accomplish your role as a WNCHC volunteer

6.1 WNCHC building

The WNCHC building is protected with a safety alarm outside regular working hours. Therefore when volunteering outside regular working hours you must be accompanied by a staff member to ensure the safety alarm is correctly turned on.

6.3 Working language

The WNCHC is a Francophone organization offering various programs and services in both official languages.

The working language of the WNCHC is mainly French. However, the volunteer may be called upon to offer a presentation, a service or a bilingual or English dialogue in certain activities and sessions.

7.0 Identification

Volunteers who will be working with clients are asked to wear a form of identification. A name tag will be given to you, and we ask that you wear this name tag when you are doing your tasks as a volunteer. We also ask that the name tag be returned when the volunteer stops volunteering at the WNCHC.

8.0 Compilation of volunteer hours

In order for us to collect data on volunteer contribution, we require that every volunteer keep track of the amount of hours they volunteer and to give a copy of the hours to the volunteer coordinator twice a year: November 30 and March 31. A copy of this form is in the appendix.

9.0 Health and Safety

For your health and safety, as well as those participating in the programming, we invite you to:

- 9.1 Familiarize yourself with the evacuation plan of the site you are volunteering at
- 9.2 Familiarize yourself with the best emergency measures relative to your position and tasks
- 9.3 Wear comfortable clothing and shoes
- 9.4 Not touch any medical material or any equipment unless otherwise advised
- 9.5 Have your flu shot every year. This will be offered at the Centre by the Primary Health Care team.

10.0 Insurance

All volunteers are covered under the WNCHC liability insurance during the time you are volunteering in our Centre.

However, if you are driving, you are responsible for your personal car insurance.

11.0 Training

All volunteers will receive an orientation on the WNCHC as well as information regarding what their tasks and responsibilities are as a volunteer.

It may be possible that the WNCHC offers some educational sessions or training in regards to your volunteer position.

12.0 Communication

The Community Health Coordinator will keep you up to date about things that are happening at the WNCHC and will let you know of any other available volunteer position. Don't hesitate to contact the Centre if you have any questions regarding your position as a volunteer.

Please contact the volunteer or community health coordinator if:

- 12.1 If you know you will be absent from your volunteer position, so we can find a replacement
- 12.2 If you have other obligations that interfere with your volunteer position
- 12.3 If you change your address or your phone number
- 12.4 You face a conflict while doing your volunteer tasks
- 12.5 You can no longer work as a volunteer with the WNCHC

13.0 WNCHC Procedures for volunteers

In order for the volunteers to work to the best of their ability and to participate as volunteers at the WNCHC, the following regulations have been established for your safety and the safety of others. Please do not hesitate to ask us questions in order to have a full understanding of these regulations.

14.0 Criminal record check

We ask that you have a criminal record check before you start your role as a volunteer with the WNCHC. You will be reimbursed.

We also ask that you inform us of any criminal activity that might have happened after you started your volunteer position.

If the volunteer doesn't inform us of a criminal activity that was done after starting their volunteer position, we will have to ask the volunteer to stop volunteering with us.

The WNCHC can ask the volunteer to give us a new copy of their criminal record check at any time.

15.0 Confidentiality

Volunteers are responsible to and required to respect the confidentiality of clients, community partners and employees of the WNCHC. This includes anything written, or spoken by anyone you come in contact with during your time as a volunteer. Failure to respect the confidentiality agreement can result in termination of your role as a volunteer at the WNCHC. All volunteers will be asked to sign a confidentiality agreement when they begin volunteering at the Centre.

16.0 Expense reimbursement

Volunteering at WNCHC should not cause you any expenses. We will cover the cost of your travel expense according to the policy of the WNCHC. You will find a Travel Reimbursement form at the end of this manual. Before incurring expenses other than routine mileage, please obtain approval from the volunteer coordinator.

17.0 Conflict of interest

A volunteer would be in a conflict of interest if they receive money or other favors for accomplishing their tasks as a volunteer. This conflict of interest policy applies whether this situation is real, apparent or has the potential to become reality.

Any conflict of interest should be immediately brought to the volunteer coordinator's attention. Failure to do so could terminate your role as a volunteer at the WNCHC.

18.0 Representing the WNCHC

Only the president of the Board of Directors and the executive director of the WNCHC can speak on behalf of the WNCHC. Volunteers are only authorized to carry out their tasks.

19.0 Discrimination and harassment

The WNCHC promotes a workplace where the staff, volunteers and clients are all treated with respect without any discrimination or harassment. We respect everyone's language, race, culture, beliefs, age and sexual preference.

Discrimination means to treat a person differently based solely on class or category, while refusing to treat them equally with respect as everyone else deserves. The Ontario human rights code is a provincial law that gives all citizens of the province equal rights and opportunities without discrimination.

Harassment is saying remarks or gestures that are inappropriate.

If a volunteer or client feels that they were victim of discrimination or harassment, they must immediately notify the volunteer coordinator to take immediate measures to address the situation.

The volunteer coordinator will meet with you after your first three months to evaluate the following:

- 20.1 Your level of satisfaction
- 20.2 The efficiency of your sessions and training
- 20.3 The amount of direction that you received
- 20.4 The interaction between you and the Centre as well as with the clients

Following this first meeting, an evaluation will be done once a year to ensure quality of service and your satisfaction of volunteering with the Centre. As well we would like to ensure that the needs of the clients are still being met.

Volunteers, who participate in small events or special events, will be asked to evaluate their participation in the event. We want to offer a positive experience for our volunteers. Your ideas, thoughts, suggestions are always welcomed.

21.0 Volunteer recognition

Your contribution as a volunteer at the WNCHC will be formally recognized. You are equally invited to attend any public meeting (annual general meeting) as well as any information sessions. The Centre considers you to be a great asset to our team and is very happy to have you part of the team.

INFORMATION

History of the West Nipissing Community Health Centre

In November 2005, the McGuinty Government announced an expansion of the community health centre network in Ontario. West Nipissing responded in August 2006 by setting up a provisional board of directors composed of representatives from various groups in the community. These devoted volunteers worked for many months to complete the necessary procedure to obtain the approval and start-up funds from the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care. Those volunteers were Collin Bourgeois (Chair), Roxanne Landry (Vice-chair), Dr. Jean Anawati, Claude Dubuc, Perry McLeod Shabogestic, Jacques Dupuis, Cynthia Dèssormiers, Joanne Savage, Carole Venne, Edward Loiselle, Suzanne Gammon and Guylaine Bourget.

In 2007, the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care chose the consulting firm Cardinal Points to confirm that the community approved the choice of the sponsoring group for the West Nipissing Community Health Centre, to ensure the regional community's participation and to complete a needs study in order to better identify the health-care priorities in that region.

Further to the study, which was completed in March 2008, a "service plan" was developed, and in order to meet the needs of the population, the West Nipissing Community Health Centre made the commitment to:

- Provide its services in both official languages;
- Serve the jurisdictions of the Municipality of Nipissing West and Garden Village;
- Prioritize those groups identified by the study: seniors, young people, including young Aboriginal people, single-parent families, Francophones and people with no family doctor;
- Provide primary health services and health promotion and disease prevention services through an interdisciplinary team;
- Coordinate services in that region while creating partnerships and integrating services.

In May 2008, the Board of Directors was formed at the first Annual General Meeting. The elected members of the founding Board of Directors were Collin Bourgeois (Chair), Dennis Yapps (co-Vice-Chair), Anne Proulx-Séguin (co-Vice-Chair), Jacques Dupuis (Treasurer), Gisèle Landriault, Ken Paquette, Perry McLeod-Shabogestic, Dr. Jean Anawati and Joanne Savage. The firm Daniel Gingras Associés was hired as a consultant to keep the project moving forward, and Collège Boréal in Nipissing housed the Centre while awaiting confirmation of a temporary site.

During its first year of operation, the Board of Directors approved the adoption of an official name, a logo developed by Perry McLeod-Shabogestic, incorporating documents, and drew up the constitution and by-laws. The Board also selected a permanent site and informed the community of the selection in December 2008. The location of the proposed site is the former Frank Casey School at the corner of Michaud and Ethel streets in Sturgeon Falls.

In January 2009, the Honourable David Ramsey announced that a Service Accountability Agreement had been signed by the West Nipissing Community Health Centre and the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care in order to ensure accountability in the provision of health services to the residents of West Nipissing and Garden Village. In April 2009, the North East Local Health Integration Network (North East LHIN) took responsibility for transferring that agreement to the Centre.

In May 2009, the Centre announced the appointment of Suzanne Davidson-Noël as Executive Director, and the WNCHC started operating at a temporary site located at the West Nipissing Centre, 145 Main Street, formerly known as the Centre Sagesse, the site of the former hospital Hôpital St-Jean de Bréboeuf.

The hiring of staff was undertaken at the same time of the renovations to the temporary site, and the Centre welcomed its first primary care client on March 30, 2010. Community health promotion programming was also developed in response to the demand in the various areas throughout West Nipissing.

The process for requesting funding for the renovation of the permanent location continued. In August 2011, Honorable Deb Matthews, Minister of Health and Long-Term Care, announced the funding for the renovation project of the permanent location of the Centre. The planning and final approval phase took several years to complete.

In September 2014, the Board of Directors appointed Guy Robichaud as Executive Director, following Suzanne Davidson-Noël's retirement.

The Ministry approved the final plans of the renovation project in August 2015. The renovation of the former Frank Casey School, located at 68 Michaud Street in Sturgeon Falls, began shortly after, and was completed in August 2016. The West Nipissing Community Health Centre moved into its new permanent location in September of that same year. The well-attended grand opening of the permanent site included the unveiling of a new corporate image and website, designed by Crimson Pepper, a local firm, owned and operated by Howard Longfellow.

In November 2016, the North East Local Health Integration Network (NE-LHIN) approved the Centre's request for a funding increase to cover the cost of leasing the former Frank Casey Public School gym. This allows the Centre to expand existing programs and develop new initiatives.

History of Health Centres in Ontario*:

Community Health Centres were established in Ontario near the end of the 1970s. In 1986-87, there were 12 CHCs, and today there are more than 50. CHCs are non-profit community organizations that provided a range of primary health and health promotion services in 56 communities in Ontario. Each CHC is governed by a community-elected board of directors and is located in the area where its clients live, thus allowing it to respond quickly to the identified health needs of the community it serves.

CHCs provide services through a paid multidisciplinary team which may include, among other medical service providers, doctors, nurse practitioners, health promotion nurses, nutritionists/dieticians and social workers. As such, CHCs are able to offer continuous care and unlimited high-quality services to clients with greater health needs.
